SOUTHERN COUNTY BOYS WILL WORK THIS SUMMER IN PINEAPPLE FIELDS

PORTERVILLE — Twelve boys from southeastern Tulare county left Monday to take summer jobs in the Hawaiian pineapple fields of the Maui Land and Pineapple company, at Lahaina, Maui, flying out of Los Angeles in a group of 23 California boys.

Going from Porterville were: Craig Olenberger, Richard Schmid, Curtis Blevins, John Della, Jeff Board, Steven Schmid, and Bob Falconer; from Strathmore - James Augustine, and Mike Taylor; from Lindsay - Phil Mayberry; and from Terra Bella - Don Myer, and Mark Stephen. Traveling with the group was Buck Bennett, of Porterville, who will conduct a tour of Maui prior to the time the boys report for work.

Other boys from California include: Richard Burton, Pleasanton; Bob Darling, Atascadero; Larry Keese and Tim Perozzi, San Luis Obispo; Loyd Till, Hanford; Bob Ellis and Lauren Ustick, Stockton; Steve Andreasen and Bill Triller, Modesto; and Michael Winkelman, Altadena.

Two students from the University of Southern California are also in the party as foremen - Bill Broz and Casey Gaunt, the latter of Springville.

Agriculturalist for the Maui Land and Pineapple company is Ron Terry, son of the Ralph Terrys, of Strathmore.

During the summer the boys will live in cabins, two boys to a room, four boys to a cabin. They will buy their own food and do their own cooking.

Field jobs in the harvesting of pineapples are classed as "hard work," however, the boys will have time to do considerable travelling in the Hawaiian islands before returning home.

PORTERVILLE — Members of the Porterville Exchange club are getting back in the fireworks business, after a lapse of one year, to stage their annual Fourth of July extravaganza in Jamison stadium. The show was not held last year because the stadium was in the process of being moved.

The show is presented without charge as a community service and is financed through concession sales and program

Rick Wanamaker Wins National Decathlon Championship

PORTERVILLE — Collapsing at the end of a 1500-meter run late Saturday evening, Rick Wanamaker of Des Moines, Iowa emerged from a field of 35 other top amateur athletes to become the 1971 National AAU decathlon champion.

Wanamaker, standing 6'9", gathered 7,989 points at the conclusion of the meet, just 31 points over second-place Russ Hodge of Los Angeles. Hodge led the field through both days of competition, until Wanamaker cleared 14'6" in the pole vault on Saturday, the second and final day of the meet.

This put Wanamaker 117 points ahead of Hodge, enough to carry him through the final two events, javelin throw and the 1500 meters.

Although wide variation existed in size and weight among the 36 athletes, variation in physical requirements for the ten events evened out differences in weight, height, and strength.

Jeff Bennett, representing Fort McArthur, Texas, was relatively small compared to the heavily-muscled Hodge, who threw the shot 53'11" compared to Bennett's 39'8". But during pole vault competition, Bennett waited patiently for the bar to reach 15' before competing, while Hodge barely cleared 13 feet on his third and final try.

Bennett, clearing 15'9½" finished third over-all with 7,806 points compared with Hodge's 7,958. Bennett also made a spectacular 1500 meter run, finishing 15.5 seconds ahead of Jeff Bannister of Los Angeles.

Doug Wells, formerly of

Porterville, finished with 6,219 (Continued On Page 8)

RICK WANAMAKER, of Des Moines, Iowa, top, winning the National AAU Decathlon championship in Jamison stadium over the weekend; and Russ Hodge, of Los Angeles, who finished only 31 points back. (Farm Tribune photos)

Employment Rate Rises In Porterville Because Of Agriculture And Industry

PORTERVILLE — Employment in the Porterville Area continues to rise, due largely to a gradual but steady influx of manufacturing companies and a greater work force demand created by year-round agricultural activity, according to Norman Polly, manager of Human Resources and Development, Porterville branch.

Statistics show Porterville as having an unemployment rate in excess of 12 percent in 1950, representing 9,268 unemployment claims passing through the HRD office. In comparison, projected rate for May, 1971 is 5.9 percent, with less than 4,000 claims.

Looking back over a 25-year career in the employment field in Porterville, Polly emphasized the changing role of agriculture in Tulare county, stressing primarily the extended citrus season. Where once citrus harvesting entailed two seasons lasting a total of five months, today's planting and marketing procedures have made it a year-round operation, he said.

"Tulare county was consistently in the 10 to 11 percent unemployment bracket," stated Polly. "before these changes in the agricultural scene came about."

PEOPLE, AIRPLANES, and entertainment added up to a successful Moonlight Fly-In at the Porterville Municipal airport over the weekend. The event, sponsored by the Porterville

Area Pilots association, drew an estimated 7,500 persons and 400 airplanes. The Tribune camera took a look.

Rolla Bishop, secretary of the Porterville fair board for 15 years, has resigned from the board. "Doctors orders" was the reason.

Donald Witt and Charles Witt have started demolition work at the old LaMotte school, with plan being to reconstruct the old school building in the Pioneer village at Mooney Grove.

Forty horseless carriages were in Porterville, Friday, to participate in the Centennial celebration and to join a horseless carriage tour into Yosemite valley over the weekend. A parade, a banquet at the Skylark with a Centennial floor show, and dancing later in the evening made up the program. In the visiting group were persons from as far south as San Diego to Saucelito on the north.

Initial forecast of California's dried prune production is 185,000 tons, off seven percent from last year's delivery.

Editorial Comment

"CIVILITY"—THE KEY WORD

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger probably set the keynote of our troubles today when he expressed to the American Law Institute his "deep conviction as to the necessity for civility if we are going to keep the jungle from closing in on us and taking over all that the hand and brain of man has created in thousands of years, by way of rational discourse and in deliberative processes."

The chief justice was primarily concerned, of course, with civility in the courtroom, in contrast to the unprincipled and deplorable courtroom performances of "overzealous advocates (who) seem to think the zeal and effectiveness of a lawyer depend on how thoroughly he can disrupt the proceedings or how loud he can shout or how close he can come to insulting all those he encounters—including the judges."

He included in his concern, however, the news media, members of legislative bodies, disrupters of public meetings. "Speakers are shouted down," he said, "or prevented from speaking. Editorials tend to become shrill with invective, and political cartoons are savagely reminiscent of a century past."

Quoting Archibald Cox, former solicitor general of the United States, who when he was shouted down by his own students said: "If this meeting is disrupted, then liberty will have died a little. Freedom of speech is indivisible. You cannot deny it to one man and save it for others", Chief Justice Burger added:

"Civility is also indivisible; we cannot abandon it ourselves and expect it to be practiced by others."

This is the key word for all of us. Civility, a decent respect for the rights of others, not only in the courtroom or the auditorium or the editorial pages or in broadcasts, but in all our contacts with our fellow men, public or private. Without it, freedom surely will die.

CALIFORNIA SPEAKS

KENNETH J. KOFORD, Venice—"We committed ourselves to defend . . . South Vietnam from her aggressive totalitarian neighbor because a free South Vietnam is in our national interest. But if we try we can still lose—by pulling out immediately."

JOHN R. VOLPATTI, S.F.—"Although I can't say I am wholeheartedly in favor of the Vietnam war, I still am behind our fighting men (and although) I am close to 69 there better be no Viet Cong flag wavers where I can get a good crack at them."

We Only Heard

BY BILL RODGERS

WHEN FOLKS say, "the camera never lies," they know not of what they speak, for cameras can be made to record a great variety of interpretations of a given scene through the use of "camera angle" and special lens'. . . Case in point is the slide show that City Planner Gary Irish uses to illustrate his explanation of a proposed ordinance to regulate signs in Porterville. Through use (we are tempted to say flagrant use) of a telephoto lens, pictures are created that make Main street appear to be a sign board jungle (which it isn't) and which create an impression that Porterville is in bad shape, sign-wise, with planners riding to the rescue. . . Which brings us to our oft-repeated difference of opinion with planners: In commercial areas, we would like to see every sign bigger and brighter than all the rest, with the glow of Porterville visible on the night sky from 99 Freeway. As for the planners' Utopia - relatively small signs mounted flat against store fronts - we say "out with this thinking," which if followed to its ultimate conclusion will make Porterville look like every other town. Of course, in the professional planners' Utopia, every town will look like every other town - then some planner can come up with a new idea and the planning cycle can start all over to make every town look like every other town, but different than every town now looks. . . In revising the sign ordinance in Porterville, why not get original and make Porterville look like not every other town, but like no other town?

HOW COME, no flags on Main street as of June 14, which is Flag Day? And how come flags have been up for certain local celebrations that have no patriotic connotation? Seems like maybe there should be a reappraisal of when flags go up and when they don't. . . Responsibility for getting the American flags out, and in, has been with local Veteran organizations for several years.

AND WHILE on the subject of "how come," we suggest it is most regrettable that the Porterville chamber of commerce, and its Merchants' committee, saw fit this year to discontinue Porterville's "Salute To Agriculture," held during the past three years to open Porterville Fair week. . . And in a year when the president of the United States saw fit to set up a national Salute to Agriculture!

RODEO COWBOY INJURED IN PLANE CRASH

PORTERVILLE — Russell McCall, Myrtle Point, Oregon cowboy who took first-place money at the recent Porterville rodeo in bareback riding, sustained a broken leg and back injuries in a light plane crash following this year's Glennville rodeo.

Piloting the plane was Doug Brown, 1969 world champion bull rider. Brown, McCall, and the plane's other passengers: Mike Adams, Murrieta; and Gary Crowther, Chula Vista, were taken to a Bakersfield hospital, but all released except McCall.

Each of the four cowboys had competed in the Porterville rodeo, and were enroute from Glennville to another rodeo when the plane lost power and crashed.

Eighty percent of the U.S. population inhabits less than 10 percent of the land area.

WHAT TO DO this weekend? With a most successful National AAU Decathlon championship and an equally successful Moonlight Fly-In a matter of record, and with rodeos, fairs, graduations, class parties and such items taken care of, maybe this is the weekend to relax - while the Porterville Exchange Club boys get things ready for another great Fourth of July fireworks show in Jamison stadium. . . Now is a most beautiful time to visit the Sierra to the east - flowers in bloom, clear skies, a bit of a nip in the morning air, and, back in the woods, the quiet sounds of mountain silence. . . If we were a doctor, we would prescribe the Sierra for distraught patients. Since we're not a doctor, we'll prescribe it anyway.

Drip Versus Furrow Method In Southwest

SAN YSIDRO — Drip irrigation in California's arid southwest shows promise of having a dramatic effect on field crop quality and economy.

In areas where water can cost up to $180 per acre foot, applying water drop by drop on individual tomato plants has proven to cut water costs by one-third, and increase the marketable tomato yield by over 15,000 pounds per acre. Economically-priced polyethylene hose used in drip irrigation could point to the obsolescence of conventional furrow irrigation, in these areas, according to developers and pioneers of the new technique.

Interstate Wine Tax Is Discriminatory According To Mathias

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Discriminatory taxation on interstate shipment of California wines is being opposed through legislation co-sponsored by Congressman Bob Mathias and members of the California Congressional delegation.

The bill is designed to end other state's practice of imposing taxes as high as $2 per gallon on out of state wine, while locally-produced wine is taxed at only $1 per gallon. These states, said Mathias, are violating the interstate commerce clause of the U.S. Constitution by imposing arbitrary licensing, storage, and marketing regulations.

Six Committees To Direct Cotton Research Funds

SHAFTER — California's cotton crop this season will be under the watchful eyes of members of six committees, appointed from the ranks of the California Cotton Research council to lend direction to the use of $1,600,000 in available research funds annually.

Ron Allen of Coalinga, council chairman, said the committees will represent all segments of the industry and will conduct in-depth studies in all cotton growing areas of the state during the 1971 season. Their recommendations will be coordinated with research conducted by four University of California campuses and the USDA cotton station at Shafter.

The six areas of special interest are breeding and testing of varieties; disease problems; insect control; water, soils and plant nutrition; mechanization and weed control, and quality of products.

Each committee will meet during the season with research specialists within its study area, with a full council meeting planned for November to pool the total findings.

John H. Turner, director of the Shafter station, explained 26 scientists will be involved in the various projects. He said that since the amount spent on cotton research is small compared to sums spent by manufacturers of synthetic fibers, it is vital that monies available from all sources be used to best advantage. He added that findings in cotton research often aid in solving the problems of other crops.

REAP Operating Under ASC Guidance

VISALIA — Rural Environmental Assistance program is now operating in Tulare county under the administration of the Tulare county ASC committee. M.L. Rogers of Porterville is chairman of the ASC committee.

Other members of the committee are Roy Murray, Earlimart, and Bruce Burkdoll, Alta. REAP is a program of the U.S. Department of Agriculture under which farmers and the government share conservation practice costs.

Cool weather has slowed grape development in the San Joaquin valley, but good bunch counts are reported for raisin varieties.

From Daybell Nursery

By John

Among the great things about living in a warm climate is that you can spend a lot of time outdoors. Every day isn't blistering hot, although a few are, and there are many nice mornings and evenings for outside enjoyment. Of course this encourages people to plant flowers and do other foolish things but it also brings them much enjoyment.

There are also hazards too such as mosquitos, the neighbor's kids, and having to mow the lawn in order to find your folding chairs. The mosquito problem can be helped by spraying Dibrom around your outdoor living area. The neighbor's kids are something else although you might screen off your sitting area with bamboo or reed fence. You might also turn the sprinkler on them.

If you wish that you had planted a shade tree or a fruit tree there are many still available. They are in containers so that you can plant one anytime that your shovel is sharp. Fruit trees include just about all of the deciduous varieties - peaches, plums, apricots, nectarines, figs, cherries, apples, almonds, and even grape vines. Most citrus varieties are also in stock.

Shade trees are almost too numerous to mention. However if you drop by we'll try to show you varieties that are just the right size for your particular yard. It is important to find one that does the job without having to be extensively pruned and we feel that we can help you select it. Come by soon.

Still Too Early To Measure Success Of Comstock Mealybug Control Program

PORTERVILLE — Success in controlling infestations of Comstock mealybug in the Porterville area cannot, as yet, be measured according to Elvin Mankins, Tulare county agricultural commissioner.

Mankins stated that the control program, consisting of the release of 75,000 Cryptolaemus montrouzieri beetles, will be considered successful if the beetles live through the summer, reproduce, and feed on the mealybug eggs, larvae, and adults.

"Cryps" beetles were released in May in Porterville near mulberry trees, the mealybug's preferred habitat. Dr. Blair Bartlett, division of biological control at the University of California, Riverside is heading the program with cooperation from the California State Department of Agriculture and Tulare County Agricultural department.

Efforts to control mealybug in the Lindsay area by spraying have been successful, but state department officials say a natural predator such as the "Cryps" beetle is more economical and less likely to disrupt the environment.

"Cryps," first imported from Australia in 1892, have not been able to withstand California's subtropical winters so far. The Porterville program is therefore providing both a test plot for mealybug control and "in-the-field" data on "Cryps" adaptability to climate.

Bill Reed of the California State department in Fresno, stated that this mealybug infestation in the San Joaquin valley is the first recorded west of the Rocky mountains. Not knowing the mealybug's potential threat to almonds, peaches, pomegranates, and citrus should make it a primary concern of everyone in the state.

"Undoubtedly there will be all kinds of insect parasites and predators tried in the program," concluded Mankins. "at the present time, however, all we can do is keep an eye on the beetles' progress and confine the infestation to a controlled area."

First forecast of the California apricot crop is for 200,000 tons, compared to production last year of 170,000 tons.

$2,600 Goal Increase Set By Cancer Society

VISALIA — Funds raised by the Tulare county unit of the American Cancer society must exceed the previously announced goal of $50,000, by an additional $2,600, or face a cutback in the program after September 1. Orle Reed, president-elect of the Tulare county unit, stated that $40,000 had been raised so far by the society, but the $50,000 goal must be surpassed in order to assure present levels of Cancer society programs.

Debbie Todd reported there will be a swim party on June 26 at Murry park, with swimming starting at 4:00.

Guest for the evening, Mrs. Walter Owen, presented a $5 gift certificate to Debbie Todd for being the best sewing girl. Margie Keen and Marcia Carlisle were runners-up.

Sheep members presented an award to Jim Carlisle for helping them with their sheep at the fairs.

Leaders' reports included a "thank-you" to those who worked on the fair booth, an explanation of how to grade project books, availability of State Fair entry blanks, announcement of last county meeting, and the County Awards night in Exeter.

Nearly 50 percent of the manufacturing plants built in the last 10 years are located in open country or small towns.

Great Wall of China, stretching 1,500 miles, is the longest man-made structure.

Shaffer Chosen As Faculty Member Of Conference

PORTERVILLE — Buck Shaffer, head of the instrumental music department at Porterville high school, has been selected as one of 10 music instructors in the state to serve as a faculty member of the Asilomar Music Framework conference, set for June 20 through 25.

The conference is a workshop designed for training 100 music educators throughout California in procedures and activities designed to implement the music framework for California public schools. These 100 educators will in turn train music specialists and classroom teachers instructing kindergarten through high school levels of music, as well as those in teacher training institutions.

The workshop-conference is endorsed by California State Board of Public Schools, funded through county service, and administered by county superintendents in cooperation with the State Department of Education.

CITRUS CROPS LOOKING GOOD SAYS MANKINS

VISALIA — New citrus and avocado crops continue to look good for Tulare county, with a small amount of fruit drop taking place in some areas, according to Elvin Mankins, Tulare county agricultural commissioner.

Second plantings of cotton have been improving steadily with the warm weather. Thinning and cultivation of cotton is well underway.

Several early varieties of peaches, plums, nectarines, and apricots are currently being harvested, with considerable grade out in some lots caused by damage during hail storms earlier in the season. Grape growers are in the process of thinning table bunches.

Most growers are packing a few first-crop tomatoes. Barley, squash, and cucumber harvest is underway, and wheat harvest will probably be started soon.

Fire Season In Effect For Sequoia Forest

PORTERVILLE — Fire season for Sequoia National forest officially became effective Tuesday, according to M.R. James, forest supervisor.

Campfire permits will be required in all areas of the forest except designated campgrounds, entry permits will be required for visitors in wilderness and primitive areas effective June 25, and smoking will be restricted to campgrounds, inside vehicles on the road, or in clear areas three feet in diameter.

Smoking is not permitted while walking, or riding a horse or trail machine through the forest. Fire season closes October 31 unless fire danger exists beyond that date.

There are 11 acres for every person in the U.S.

Dear Mr. Rogers:

On behalf of the "GROUP", I would like to call your attention to the enclosed Preview "Advertisement" that appeared in the San Francisco Chronicle, Friday, June 11, 1971.

It seems that California is being invaded by a "Fake", bamboozler, hoodwinker, rogue and rascal under the deception of the "Original W. C. Waterhorney's Medicine Show".

As our Agent, we demand that you take the necessary action to protect our image, honesty, shenanigans, skulduggery, pettifogger and numerous other descriptive colloquialisms that are synonymous with the "DOC SMALL MEDICINE SHOW".

You are well-aware "Doc Small's Medicine Show" performs out of the generosity of its heart, for the well-being and welfare of its audience and for good fellowship. It is with deep concern that we bring this to your attention and truly hope that you, as "Agent", can eliminate this knavery that is being showered on the good people of San Francisco.

In plain words, get rid of the bum! He is cutting into our business!

Very truly yours,

EMPLOYMENT RATE

Industries, he continued, such as Beckman Instruments Inc., Rockwell Mfg., Jostens Inc., Sierra Sportswear, Standard Register, Sierra Forest products, and several other smaller industries, have created over 1,500 new jobs since 1950. Two governmental agencies, Porterville State hospital and U.S. Forest service, have contributed to the brightening employment outlook with a peak work force of over 2,000 employees.

Shedding some light on the importance of these figures, a recent survey conducted by the United States Chamber of Commerce revealed that every 100 workers coming into a community brings with them 359 more people, 91 more school children, 100 more households, 97 more passenger cars registered, $331,000 more retail sales annually, $710,000 more personal income per year, $229,000 more bank deposits, three more retail establishments, and 65 more employees in non-manufacturing.

Polly says that a high rate

(nearly 60 percent) of unskilled and semi-skilled job applicants are handled by HRD, and that hair length and dress codes have increasingly become an issue, sometimes a barrier, between employer and applicant.

"Everyone has the right to fill out an application at HRD," said Polly, "but it is an employer's prerogative to accept or reject an applicant on the basis of attitude toward established business codes and policies."

Land Subsidence Reducing Friant-Kern Canal Capacity

VISALIA — Costly reductions in carrying capacity of the Friant-Kern canal are being forced by land subsidence problems in several localities, according to James F. Sorensen, Visalia, secretary of the Friant Water Users association.

Sorensen, speaking in Visalia at an FWUA board meeting, detailed a U.S. Geological Survey report just released showing that between 1962 and 1970 subsidence of as much as three feet has occurred in several locations in the area from Tulare to Wasco. A major rebuilding of the Friant-Kern canal is needed to get linings and check structures up to grade so the canal can carry its designed capacity.

Sorensen explained the subsidence on the valley's East side is caused by pumping overdrafts in areas not receiving water service from the Friant-Kern unit. Districts getting water from the project have fared much better, he said, but even in these subsidence is showing up because of heavy pumping in adjacent areas not served by the project.

The Visalia consulting engineer said subsidence can be checked if the overdraft is balanced by importation of supplemental water. He cited the Santa Clara valley as an example of a subsidence problem arrested when water became available from the state water project.

Frank Stockton, of the Arvin-Edison Water Storage district, was elected president of FWUA, succeeding Murray Falconer of Porterville. Warren Carter, Shafter-Wasco Irrigation district, was named vice-president. The new officers will be installed at the June annual meeting.

Improved water conditions indicate an increase in deliveries for class two contractors, according to William Crabtree, in charge of operations at the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation Fresno office.

points. Despite a complaint of strained stomach muscles, Wells threw the shot 55'1", the best in the meet for that event, and the discus 153'2", second only to Wanamaker's 159'6 1/2".

Failing to clear 10 feet three times in a row in the pole vault defending decathlon champion John Warkentin of Fresno withdrew from competition with 5,400 points. Warkentin had entered the decathlon with an injured elbow and apparently aggravated the injury during warm-ups.

Hodge, despite a spectacular burst of speed in the 1500 meter run, was obviously discouraged with his over-all performance during the meet.

"It's frustrating to me personally," said Hodge, "when I know that I'm in top condition and capable of doing much better, and then not showing results. I lost 300 points in throwing events which I should have had. They're my strong points in this type of event."

Smiling and signing autographs following the decathlon, Wanamaker's only comment was, "I owe it all to Sunkist."

Scoring more than 7,000 points and finishing back of Wanamaker, Hodge and Bennett were: Steve Gough, 7,801; George Pannel, 7,607; Gary King, 7,533; Mike Hill, 7,516; and Jeff Bannister, 7,174.
